<sup>1</sup> These schools are also listed on the State Bar of California Web site at <http://admissions.calbar.ca.gov/Education/LegalEducation/LawSchools.aspx>. In addition, this Web page includes a list of unaccredited law schools in California. Students who attend an unaccredited law school are required to take the First-Year Law Students Examination and must pass it within three administrations after becoming eligible to take the examination, which is upon completion of the first year of law study, in order to receive credit for law study undertaken up to the point of passage.

APPENDIX C: CALIFORNIA LAW SCHOOLS

- One may search for law schools alphabetically, by private school, by public school, and by geographic region on the ABA-Approved Law Schools page, http://www.americanbar.org/groups/legal\_education/resources/aba\_approved\_law\_schools.html

The Association of American Law Schools (AALS)

- Web site: <http://www.aals.org/index.php>
- AALS is a nonprofit association of 171 law schools. Its purpose is “the improvement of the legal profession through legal education.”
- Publishes the Directory of Law Teachers, which lists, by school, the full-time faculty and professional staff of all member and fee-paid law schools. This annual publication contains biographical sketches of over 10,000 full-time teachers and lists full-time teachers by subjects taught.

The Law School Admission Council (LSAC)

- Web site: <http://www.lsac.org/>
- The LSAC is a nonprofit corporation “whose goal is to provide the highest quality admission-related services for legal education institutions and their applicants throughout the world.” Those services include the Law School Admissions Test (LSAT), research and statistical reports, videos, and LSAT preparation tools.
- The most recent edition of the Official Guide to ABA-Approved Law Schools is posted online at https://officialguide.lsac.org/release/OfficialGuide\_Default.aspx. One may search in a variety of ways: keyword, geography, or by alphabet.
- The Research page (under LSAC Resources) includes a wealth of information, such as statistical reports, data on matriculants by ethnicity, and information on grants.

The State Bar of California

- <http://www.calbar.ca.gov/>
- There are several useful pages for prospective law students on the California Bar’s website. Click on the “Bar Exam” link on the right-side of the screen. The main screen includes information on the California Bar Exam. On the left, there are links to “Pre Legal and Legal Education,” “Law Schools,” “Other Attorney Admission/Law Student Programs,” and “Law Student Resources.”
